Security Features

A. guilloche with rainbow colouring

D. microtext, reads 'GENUINE-ISSUED BY CITIZENCARD' E. 'GENUINE' with wireframing effect

The holographic overlay is a transparent laminate that is applied to the back of the card over the cardholder details. The following elements and effects make up the overlay:

A. A rainbow guilloche pattern that goes around the edge of the overlay, avoiding the QR code as this area needs to be left clear to ensure no elements obstruct a camera trying to read the code. The colour of the guilloche and visibility of individual lines changes as the card is tilted.

B. The 'switch' graphic features two images which will individually appear as the card is tilted, one being the 'i' figure from the CitizenCard logo and the other being a shield, both appear in rainbow colours which change as the angle is changed.

C. The circles enclosing the 'switch' appear one by one going outwards or inwards depending on the way in which you tilt the card, this is called the 'Kinetic effect'.

D. Microtext which follows the inner edge of the guilloche pattern that repeats the phrase 'GENUINE-ISSUED BY CITIZENCARD'. This is almost imperceptible to the naked eye and a magnifying glass would be needed to read the text properly.

E. The outline of the word 'GENUINE' starting at the bottom of the card and decreasing in size over 7 repetitions has the 'wireframe' effect applied to it, which makes one 'GENUINE' appear at a time, as the card is tilted.
